

Periodicals from the Il Mulino editorial group now available to North American libraries and research institutes through the Torrossa platform

Casalini Libri and the Il Mulino editorial group are pleased to announce their recent agreement for the distribution of the publisher's online journals across North America. The new initiative forms an integral part of the two companies' long established collaboration for the worldwide diffusion of Italian research publishing, through print publications, experimental projects and electronic editions.

This collection comprises 59 journals in the fields of the Humanities and Social Sciences and is available either as a complete set, or in three thematic packages (Humanities, Social Studies, Economics and Law). All packages include the current year's content for each of the journals, as well as all available back issues, with an average archive of 14 years per title.

Institutions may access the collections through the Torrossa full text platform (www.torrossa.it).

The publisher offers permanent access to all titles and permissions for the downloading, copying and pasting and printing of articles. All content is available in PDF and visible on any device that supports this format.

For further information on the content and purchase offers available for North-American institutions, please contact us at torrossa@casalini.it.

The Il Mulino publishing house has grown together with the journal of the same name, published for the first time in Bologna on 25th April 1951. In June 1954 the company became known as the Società editrice il Mulino, gradually developing, enlarging and enriching its editorial activity with a vast and diverse collection of periodical publications. While a number of journals offer a balanced analysis of current affairs for a general audience, other, more specialised titles offer to scholars the most recent research output in all of the disciplinary areas covered by the publisher.

Since its foundation in the late 1950's, Casalini Libri S.p.A. has been dedicated to the supply of bibliographical services, books and journals to national, academic and public libraries and institutions worldwide. Since its outset Casalini Libri has worked closely with libraries and publishers to develop customized supply and library services that suit the individual needs of our customers around the world.

The Casalini Libri Digital Division, established in January 2000 following an international pilot project, offers innovative electronic publishing services to the highest industry standards, collaborating with Italian and international publishers to create and distribute digital publications.

The company, headquartered in Fiesole (Florence, Italy), adheres to the ISO 9000 Quality Management System.
