

Torrossa Digital Library: autumn update

The Torrossa platform provides visibility, distribution support and technology to academic publishers, while simplifying purchasing, licensing and access for institutions.

TORROSSA ONLINE DOCUMENT READER

In July, we launched a new integrated tool providing easier visualisation of full text content available in the Torrossa digital library. The Reader is compatible with major internet browsers and does not require additional plug-ins or settings. It has been specifically developed to improve visualisation from tablets and smartphones.

NEW CONTENT

Since the beginning of 2016, over 2,100 titles in electronic format from a number of prestigious publishing partners have been added to the Torrossa catalogue. Significant additions include 57 monographs published by Leo S. Olschki during 2015, 93 of the most recent publications from G. Giappichelli Editore, and a brand new Art collection from L'Erma di Bretschneider.

NEW CONTRIBUTORS

October began with the signing of a new agreement with UNE (Unión de Editoriales Universitarias Españolas) for the distribution of print and electronic material. Approximately one third of UNE's 60 associated presses are already present on the Torrossa platform and we expect to extend our catalogue to include further UNE members in the future.

Recent months have seen the addition of content from Marcial Pons Historia, Catarata, Pacini Editore and Settegiorni Editore.

TORROSSA OPEN (<http://oa.torrossa.com>)

A dedicated portal now gives academic publishers the possibility to reach a wider audience by offering research content to the scientific community in Open Access.
